Who is a Confidential Employee?
- Confidential Employees include, but are not limited to, the Confidential Advocate, student ombuds, Disability and Access (D&A), and health, medical, and mental health care providers. For a complete list of confidential resources, please see Campus Resources on our website.

Domestic Violence and Dating Violence can include Economic Abuse. Economic Abuse means behavior that is coercive, deceptive, or unreasonably controls or restrains a person's ability to acquire, use, or maintain economic resources to which they are entitled, including using coercion, fraud, or manipulation.

Identifying When to Report
Employees are required to promptly report all information concerning an incident of Prohibited Conduct.

Please use the following assessment questions to determine when you need to report:

1. Is it Prohibited Conduct?
2. Are you or were you in the course and scope of your employment when you received the information or witnessed the incident?
3. Was at least one University affiliate (faculty, staff, students, contractors, applicants, and campus visitors) involved in the incident?

If you answer yes to these three questions, you must submit a report to the Title IX Office.

Information received or incidents witnessed while engaged in a personal activity on personal time does not mandate reporting unless the following two circumstances occur:

1. You were recognized in your capacity as a University employee; and
2. You received a direct disclosure of Prohibited Conduct.
